Board takes action

Bay school classrooms illegally overcrowded

By RICH ADAMS

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Monday night adopted a resolution acknowledging illegal overcrowding at Waveland Elementary and seeking exemption from the applicable state laws.

The resolution noted two of the system's fourth grade classes have more than the allowable 27 students.

House Bill 1025, passed in the 1978 legislative session, requires school districts to limit enrollment in single classes of first, second, and third graders to 27 students.

The legislature met earlier this year and amended the law to include the fourth grade.

Superintendent J.D. McCullough told the board Monday the resolution was necessary, and will be attached to every monthly average daily attendance report submitted to the State Department of Education.

"The only thing we can do is request we be declared exempt from the law," McCullough said.

"Several school districts in the state have more than 27 students in each classroom in grades one through four," the superintendent continued.

"We are lucky. We are only affected in one grade at Waveland Elementary School," he added.

McCullough explained that two sections of a fourth grade class at Waveland have 32 students enrolled.

In proposing the resolution, McCullough favors exemption because "to rectify the situation would place undue hardships on the school district because of a lack of classrooms."

Board Member Betty Diboll asked if the request for exemption will effect state accreditation, and McCullough said he will probably receive a "warning."

McCullough told the board he has pursued every avenue to lower attendance at Waveland, asking for voluntary placement at North Bay Elementary and requesting families to move to Bay St. Louis and leave the Waveland district.

"As long as the student has a statement signed by a notary public stating that student lives in Waveland, there is nothing we can do. We must abide by that," McCullough said.

On a motion by Maurice Singleton, seconded by James Ginn, the board adopted the resolution.

Nell Woodall, a teacher in the system, then asked the board if every avenue has been explored to make room for the students.

"I know recently I had six to eight children drop out of elementary school, in just the past few weeks. This is a continuous thing, and I would like to see you explore all avenues," Woodall said.

McCullough said he had enrolled seven new students Monday, and the Head lice plague Hancock pupils

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Pediculus humanus, variety capitis, commonly called head lice, are circulating through schools in Hancock County.

Though head lice have not reached epidemic stage among students, some 73 cases have been recently reported by schools within the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District and Hancock County School District.

"Approximately 20 to 30 percent of the students would have to have the lice before the situation would be considered an epidemic," said Hancock County Health Department Medical Officer Dr. Louis Jobe.

Board member opposes school officials' jaunts

By RICH ADAMS

Claiming there is not enough money to alleviate overcrowded classrooms and busses in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District, Board Member James Ginn Monday night opposed a proposal that three school administrators be sent to a convention at Atlanta, Ga.

Superintendent J.D. McCullough proposed two principals and a school administrator attend a convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) in Atlanta Dec. 10-12, the school district picking up the tab on transportation, lodging, and food for the trio.

In the same recommendation, the superintendent asked the board to send him to Anaheim, Calif. for a meeting of the American Association of School Administrators.

"In my personal opinion, I think one person would be enough to send," Ginn said Monday.

"Why should we spend money in this fashion when we have so many pressing needs and problems now within the district," he continued.

"What effect would it have if we did not send anyone or just sent one person," he asked.

McCullough said the SACS recommended he send three persons, a junior high school principal, a senior high school principal, and a school administrator.

"This is the way I have handled the matter over the past years, but it is the right of the board to change," McCullough said.

Board President Virginia Gex said three persons are necessary to attend all the meetings and workshops at the convention.

Board Member Walter Turcotte said the board has budgeted money for such expenses.

Board Member Betty Diboll made a motion to send all three representatives to the SACS convention and to allow McCullough to attend the California convention.

Turcotte seconded the motion, and the issue was passed by a three-to-one margin.

Ginn voted against the motion.

Tom Shaw announces candidacy

TOMMY SHAW

Tommy Shaw, 47, a Crane Creek Community resident, announced he is an independent candidate for the office of District Three supervisor.

Shaw, a native of Crane Creek, is a graduate of Sellers High School.

He is a self-employed dairy farmer and is president of the Gulf Coast Dairyman's Association.

He and his wife, the former Gladys Lavinghouse, have three sons, Tim, 27, Randy, 23, and Dean, 18.

The candidate is presently director of the Hancock County Youth Bureau, and previously served as an EHA committeeman for two years.

Shaw also is a member of the Hancock County School Board for six years, and has won the support of many voters in the area.

Alcan names division head

Alcan Aluminum Corporation of Cleveland, Ohio, has named a new president of its Atlanta-based Alcan Cable Division, operators of the Alcan plant in Bay St. Louis.

Roy A. Gentles, corporation president, said S. Bruce Heister, 41, of Cleveland has been named division president, replacing Jack D. Robinson who left the company shortly after a recent appearance as guest speaker at a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce quarterly breakfast meeting in September.

Alcan Cable, including its Bay St. Louis plant, produces power transmission and distribution cable for the electric utility industry.

Heister served as vice president of the company for several years and was a member of the company's executive committee.

Jail caterer's contract amended

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Ethel Page's contract to provide Hancock County Jail prisoners with meals was amended Monday by County Board of Supervisors, following a one-hour discussion and namecalling by Sheriff Sylvan Ladner.

Mrs. Page, wife of former county jailer J.W. Page, is under contract with the county to provide breakfast, lunch and dinner meals at $1.50 per meal.

Under the amended contract Mrs. Page will furnish food and prepare menus. She may also cook, but all cooking by her is to be done between 7:30 a.m. and 8:30 a.m.

The amended version of the agreement transfers the primary responsibility of cooking from Mrs. Page to the sheriff's department.

Mrs. Page informed supervisors

Sheriff Ladner had prevented her from using kitchen facilities located on the ground floor of the jail to prepare food.

Ladner told supervisors he was not going to have officers of the sheriff's department "babysit" Mrs. Page while she cooked meals at the jail.

Ladner requested supervisors have

Mrs. Page prepare meals at her home. "I can't do that because the health department won't allow it," she replied.

Ladner stated that in the past Mrs. Page's husband, J.W. Page, guarded her while she cooked the meals.

Officials deny hospital head ouster plan

By RICH ADAMS

Reports of a move to cut Harry Gilmore as Hancock general hospital administrator and replace him with outgoing Hancock County Chancery Court Clerk J.D. (Big John) Rutherford were denied Tuesday by Rutherford and hospital officials.

"That is the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard," said Rutherford.

"When I leave here, I am going to Main Street (his home) and not work for anyone," the court clerk said Tuesday.

"I have taken too much heck and high water here for the past eight years to do anything ridiculous like that," he added.

Gilmore called the reports "totally untrue," noting Rutherford was once on the hospital board of directors but to his knowledge does not plan to seek the administrator's position.

Hospital Board Chairman Rev. Charles Johnson said Tuesday the reports are "ridiculous."

"There is nothing to the reports. They are ridiculous," Johnson said.

Gilmore's term as administrator is slated to expire in January, 1980, as is Rutherford's term as clerk.

Head Lice.....

Other varieties of lice within the species Pediculus humanus include corporis (body lice) and phthirus (pubic lice).

Pediculus humanus capitis is contagious, however, "the problem is not serious—it's just a nuisance," Jobe explained.

"They just bite and itch like hell," Jobe exclaims.

The doctor says the problem is not limited to Hancock County, "it's widespread throughout the United States."

The head lice come in cycles and presently the county is in an "up cycle." Bay Catholic Elementary Principal Sister Mary Celeste reported two cases of head lice, with those cases occurring at the school building located on Necaise Street.

Christ Episcopal Day School Principal Beth Benvenutti stated "no cases" of the infectious lice had been discovered there.

Gulfview Elementary School Principal William Haddock stated some 27 cases were found. "I have a nurse checking the students every few days for head lice. We are staging an all out war against it, 95 percent of the students never get it," Haddock noted.

Haddock added that students found with head lice will be required to bring a slip from the Hancock County Health Department stating they have been cured, before they are admitted back in school.

Charles B. Murphy Elementary School Principal J.D. Panton said Wednesday no cases of head lice had been reported, "but school nurse Ms. Ruth Davis is checking students today."

Hancock North Central Elementary Principal James O'Hara said, "only one case has been reported all year and that was last week."

North Bay Elementary School Principal Billy Sills stated approximately 41 cases were found at North Bay. "We sent a note home to parents Thursday, Oct. 4, to inform them of the outbreak so that they could take precautions."

Sills added students will be required to bring a note from the health department before they can return to school.

Waveland Elementary School Principal James D. Baldree refused comment, stating, "We are not prepared at this time to issue any statement concerning head lice."

Mary Waltermann of Waveland in a letter to the editor published last Thursday, accused Baldree of not notifying all parents of Waveland Elementary students that the contagious lice were spreading.

"As parents and taxpayers we feel we are entitled to a little more consideration on occasions such as these that affect the entire community," her letter states.

The solution to the head lice problem is to warn students not to scratch the heads of other students and not to use combs or brushes of others.

Once a person has contracted head lice, medicated shampoos are used to get rid of the parasites.

"There are several shampoos," Dr. Jobe states, "Kwell which is a prescription drug; and Rid and A-200, which do not require a prescription."

Jobe noted the lice have been around the county since about 1976, adding the population of head lice should decrease within the next two years.

The physician explained that "anybody can get head lice, no matter how clean or how dirty."

The doctor said another stereotype associated with the contagious parasite is that primarily Blacks are affected by the lice.

"Blacks very seldom have head lice," Dr. Jobe declared, "because their hair is usually heavier, thicker and oilier."

"Caucasians get them more often," he stated.

Pediculus humanus capitis causes the head to itch; scratching it may in turn lead to infection.

When feeding, the louse injects saliva which irritates the skin and subcutaneous tissues, producing a raised itching red papula.

Scratching may cause open and sometimes infected sores.

The feet of the louse are hook-like claws which the parasite uses to cling to the hair.

Dr. Jobe advises persons who are infested with the pests to come to the Health Department, but those on Medicaid should go to a doctor's office because Medicaid will pay for the medicine.

Highway Patrol pistol match winners named

Shooting is more than a sport for members of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Pistol Team and their seriousness was obvious during the National Rifle Association's 18th Annual Police Revolver Championship Matches.

A message from Gil

Public officials have gotten rich in Mississippi for years. The people of Mississippi haven't. That's the way of the old politics.

I'm fed up with that kind of politics. I will place my businesses in trust if I am elected. And I will instruct them to do no business whatsoever with any public agency. I also will open my financial records every year so you can see where my money comes from and how much it amounts to.

I invited Mr. Winter to do the same. I invited him to open his records and tell us how much he's made. He has not done so. Instead he accused me of "muddling."

I ask you to be the judge of whether this is dirty politics or not. To me it's telling it like it is.

Because of the short time before the November General Election I may not have an opportunity to see everyone individually. However, your vote and support is sincerely solicited. As your District 4 Supervisor I will earnestly strive to bring good government to our county. Your Board of Supervisors is an important position that requires good leadership and representation. I personally feel that I can represent all of the people in our district in a fair and professional manner. I was responsible for Spear-heading the Kiln Fire and Water District that resulted in Farmer's Home Administration's approval of a $510,000 loan and grant for the purpose of developing a water system and the purchase of a new fire truck for the Kiln area. Eventually, this action will help reduce our insurance rates in the Kiln area. Our county is growing to the extent that we must have someone to represent us in order that our tax dollars are used wisely and to the benefit of the people.

Finch seeks White House aid on oyster relief

Gov. Cliff Finch promised to contact the White House Wednesday to obtain federal relief for Mississippi oyster fishermen and processors whose local resources were almost completely wiped out in spring floods.

Hope of obtaining oysters from Alabama and Florida waters instead were later dashed by Hurricane Frederic.

A group of Coast fishermen and oyster processors asked the governor Tuesday night to seek federal disaster status for the area's oyster reefs.

Speaking for the group of about 20 persons, state Sen. Sandy Steckler of Biloxi told Finch and several aides that heavy spring rains wiped out oyster reefs in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Hurricane Frederic demolished oyster reefs in Alabama and Florida, he said. Normally, Mississippi fishermen and processors get oysters from neighboring states if Coast production is low.

"None of the states in the northern Gulf are going to have a supply of oysters" this season, Steckler said. Fishermen and processors "can't wait for us to plant oysters (and) harvest oysters 18 months from now."

"It's obvious that the help you need right now is help to survive," Finch said, promising to contact the White House this morning about including the oyster reefs either in the spring flood disaster declaration or in the Hurricane Frederic disaster declaration.

"I am committed to making this the fastest recovery ever" from a hurricane, he said.

The formal disaster declaration would enable the fishermen and processors to apply for low-interest loans "to keep our heads above water," said Linda Gollott, president of the Mississippi Shellfish Packers Association. She said processors will be forced to get oysters from the East Coast in order to stay in business.

The fishermen and processors said they also are hoping that the Small Business Administration will grant them loans to repay existing loans for equipment or buildings and spread out the payment over a longer period.

Billy Gollott, the Coast's representative on the Commission on Wildlife Conservation that replaced the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission, said there may be some difficulty in convincing the SBA to grant the money because loss to the fishermen and processors is an economic loss and not a loss to equipment or physical facilities.

The state's oyster reefs were not included in a federal disaster declaration obtained for the Coast several months ago because not enough scientific data to prove the destruction was available, Steckler said. The scientific reports to back up the request are now in, he said.

Other fishermen and processors also would be eligible for aid if a disaster status declaration were issued. Several persons said crab production also has been wiped out by the floods and storms and fish production is down.

Fish and other shellfish migrate in and out of Coast waters, however, while oysters remain in one spot from spawning until harvesting.

Mississippi received a $675,000 grant from the federal government to rebuild oyster damaged in the floods.

Shell were planted on the reefs decimated by the spring floods of the

NASA ok's $15 million PanAm pact option

(NASA's) National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County has awarded a contract modification to Pan American World Airways, Inc., which provides support services at the facility. Estimated cost of the contract extension is $15,340,225 with a potential award fee of $10,243.

The modification is to a cost-plus-award-fee contract and exercises an option for the continuation of facility operating service at NSTL during the 12 month period beginning Oct. 12, 1979 through Oct. 12, 1980.

The contractor will be required to support on-site NASA programs related to launch vehicle and rocket engine static testing and environmental and resource management, and to provide facility support services to other resident agencies in accordance with NASA-approved agreements.

These services will fall into six broad categories: operation and maintenance of the NSTL real and installed property; institutional services; supply and equipment management; construction services; installation services and special shuttle services.

Abestos retrofitting voluntary for hair drier owners

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the manufacturer of the "Rocket Blower," a commercial hair drier used nationwide in beauty salons patronized primarily by blacks, today announced a voluntary program for the removal and replacement of asbestos heat shields in the hair driers. The correction program has been accepted by the Commission as adequate.

The manufacturer, Bonat Inc., of West Patterson, New Jersey, estimates that since 1972 approximately 1,000 of the special purpose hair driers have been sold to distributors for resale to beauty salons.

The company estimates that perhaps 500 individual beauty salons currently may be using the "Rocket Blower," the asbestos heat shield are predominantly in major urban areas.

Bonate and CPSC will be instructing Bonate distributors and their salon customers to return the driers for retrofitting.

Bonate has informed the Commission that it believes these hair driers do not present a health hazard. Although Bonate therefore feels it is not legally obligated to undertake the correction program, it has agreed to do so voluntarily.

Distributors and their beauty salon operators can identify the "Rocket Blower" by its name on the label, which reads "Bonate Blower Dryer." The "Rocket Blower" models requiring removal of the asbestos heat shield are models B-10, B-11 and B-14. No other Bonate driers have been manufactured with asbestos heat shields. The replacement program is scheduled to begin in mid-October when the company will have completed its retrofitting arrangements.

Beauty salon operators are being advised to write the Bonate company at 250 Lackawanna Ave., West Patterson, New Jersey 07424, to receive details of the retrofit program.

Salon operators also may contact CPSC at the agency's toll-free Hotline, 800-638-8325, to initiate participation in the program.

In Maryland, the Hotline number is 800-492-8363; and in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the number is 800-638-8333.

BOOK REVIEW

VIXEN '03' BY CLIVE CUSSLER

Published October 1 Clive Cussler's dashing hero Dirk Pitt, star of the best-selling novel "Raise the Titanic!" (which has a total of 1.8 million copies in Bantam print) returns for another daring underwater salvage mission in "Vixen '03."

An October Bantam Super Release with a first printing of 1.1 million copies, "Vixen '03" was a national bestseller in Viking hardcover, with over 75,000 copies in print.

Dirk Pitt's exploits have been chronicled in three previous Cussler books.

"Iceberg," "The Mediterranean Capers" and "Raise the Titanic" - which have a total of over 2.6 million copies in Bantam print.

A marine engineer, Pitt is a troubleshooter for the National Underwater Maritime Agency, a financial government organization that dispatches him on his aquatic adventures.

In "Vixen '03," set in 1988, Pitt traces an Air Force plane laden with explosive canisters filled with a deadly plague, to its crash site at the bottom of a Colorado lake.

But two of the canisters are missing: they're in the hands of African terrorists who are planning to use them to destroy Washington, D.C. Only Dirk Pitt can stop them in time.

USM presents 'A Doll's House'

A play which caused a great deal of controversy when first presented 100 years ago because it seemed to advocate divorce and women's rights, Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll's House" will continue at the Performing Arts Center (PAC) stage at the University of Southern Mississippi through Oct. 13.

The play set for 8 p.m. Oct. 11-12 and 2 p.m. Oct. 14 will be directed by Dr. Warren Robertson, theatre arts professor.

"Based on an actual series of events involving an acquaintance of Ibsen's the play is concerned with human rights and dignity and is a thought provoking presentation of marriage and husband-wife relationships," Robertson said.

The three-act play will be presented in the PAC auditorium where the stage juts out into the orchestra pit because as Robertson said, "We hope by bringing the action a little closer to the audience will make the action more intimate."

Norma Helmer, played by Claire Goulet of Long Beach, Forges her father's signature to secretly borrow a large sum of money while her husband is recuperating from a serious illness.

After her husband, Torvald, played by Bern Gauthier of Tallahassee, Fla., recovers and is appointed bank director he removes Nils Krogstad, played by David Stevens of Hattiesburg, from his position for once being disgraced by a forgery.

Nils is the person from whom Norma borrowed the money and he gets Norma to try to convince her husband to keep him (Nils) on at the bank. When she fails Torvald finds out about Nora's forgery.

The Bay High Tigers, returning a loss at the hands of an overpowering d'Iberville eleven, go to battle against the Long Beach Bearcats Friday night at Long Beach. First-year Head Coach James "Snuffy" Smith said he thinks his offense, straining to acquire the consistency needed to become a winning, well-executed unit, will "put it all together" in the game against the Bearcats.

"There are two factors which concern me about the game," Smith said Tuesday. One, not to let the Long Beach team get the long pass off. Our passing defense was tested for the first time against d'Iberville last week, and we did not do so well," he explained.

"Two, not to fumble so many times and allow the Bearcats to capitalize on our mistakes," he continued.

"It is impossible to say we are not going to fumble, but we can try not to do it so often, cutting down on our mistakes," Smith explained.

Smith then stressed consistency, an attribute which usually comes with experience, but one which he is hoping to install in his squad with patient coaching. "We have a young offense, which can execute to a high degree," the head coach said.

"We have a lack of consistency. If we had more consistency, we could beat all the ball clubs on our schedule," he continued.

"We were hurt by inconsistency the last two ball games, but we will pull it together this ballgame, I believe," Smith said.

"Feel we are going to limit our mistakes and become successful," he added. Smith said he is aware that opponents are keying on Quarterback Chuck Benigno, who had rushed for over 100 yards in his opener against Stone County.

Bay High runs a veer option offense, and Smith feels his offensive options are open in the game against Long Beach.

"Since the Stone County game, every team we have played has keyed on Benigno to stop him. I feel we have other options which we can use on offense, and I am not worried at all," Smith said.

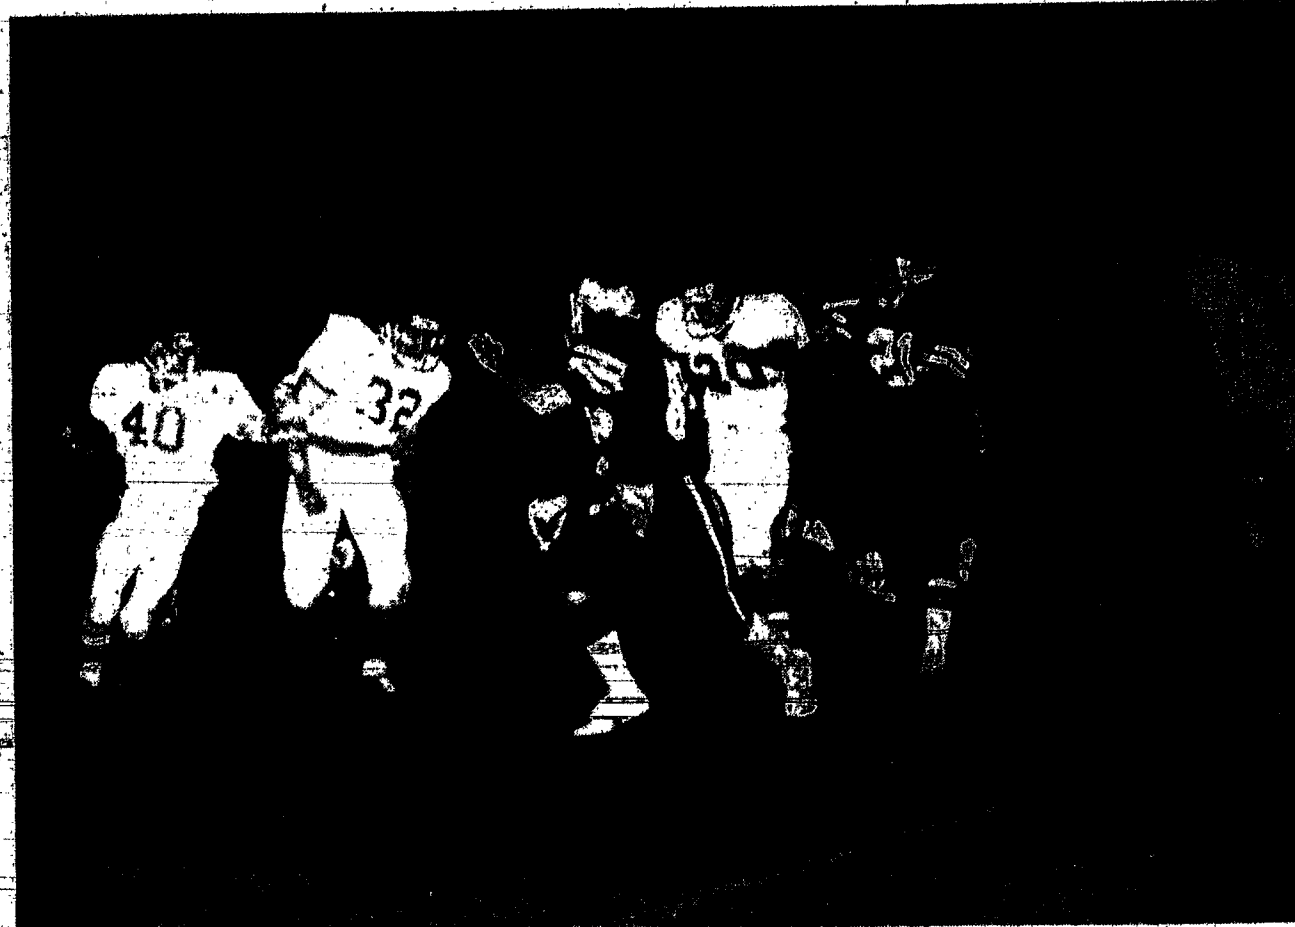

Smith has a wary eye on the Bearcats, an inexperienced, young team of sophomores and juniors last year with a season of experience under their belt this season.

"They are a most improved ball club since the first of the season. They are a fine ball club, but I feel they are beatable," Smith said.

"Long Beach was beat once by a team they should have beat, and I think we can beat them," he continued.

Realizing his defensive secondary needs work against a passing team, Smith said he is working on a tough defensive passing counter-attack.

St. Stanislaus Rock-A- Chaws

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws, coming from an emotion-charged win last week over county rival Hancock North Central, face the top team in the Pascagoula River Conference Friday as they host undefeated d'Iberville at Rock Stadium.

First-year Head Coach Barry Jones, believing his eleven can meet the Warriors head on, said his players are not afraid of the ominous d'Iberville squad.

"We have confidence in ourselves. Not over-confidence, but we are extremely emotional and are not afraid of playing against them," Jones said Tuesday.

However, Jones admitted his team will have to cut down on turnovers and errors to defeat the Number One team in the Rock's first conference game of the season.

"We can't afford to make costly turnovers and drastic errors and expect to win," the Rock skipper said.

James Evans, the monster-man running back for d'Iberville who runs through defensive lines and passes as well as any quarterback, will be a man for the Rocks to key on as they attempt to stop the Warrior's forward momentum.

"Evans is a fine fullback, with good weight and strength. He runs the option well, and is probably the key to the Warrior offense. We will have to gear up and stop him," Jones explained.

"On top of that he throws well, and is double trouble," the coach added.

Jones said the d'Iberville defense is good, but hopes to throw the line off with a tough counter-attack.

"The defense plays good football and is very aggressive. I hope we can hit them with a few good licks and slow them down," Jones said.

He added, however, the actual key to winning a game against the overpowering Warriors is ball control and possession.

"The success to winning will be to maintain ball possession and cut down on turnovers," Jones said.

The SSC offense will be driven by running backs Keith Pfister and Scott Senner. Senner last week broke three tackles on one touchdown run, and carried HNC's Willy Santiago around his waist five yards before struggling him off to enter the end zone.

"d'Iberville will not be able to just sit back and key in on any one man. Pfister averages 100 yards a week, as does Senner. Quarterback Gary Sotak threw his first touchdown pass of the season last week, and we will go to the air more now," Jones said.

"This will be a close contest, and our kids are looking forward to playing d'Iberville. It is time to bring the reign of the PRC to us this year, and the game will be exciting," Jones added.

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. Friday at Rock Stadium.

Bay pugilist eyes rematch

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

A rematch between the Bay-Kill-Waveland Boxing Club's Joe Louis Goodman and Sauter's Sylvester White will be the main event in a meeting of the two clubs this Saturday at the Sauter Boxing Club.

The rematch between the 21-year-old Goodman, an Olympic hopeful, and White will take place at 10 p.m. on Saturday at the Sauter Boxing Club, 1001 S. Main St. Goodman was defeated in a decision on Sept. 2 after going the distance with White. Sauter Head Coach John Williams said he expects a close fight.

"Joe won the first fight with a 10-9 decision, but I think Goodman is a better fighter than White," Williams said. "I think Goodman is a better fighter than White, and I think Goodman is a better fighter than White." Williams said he expects a close fight.

weight from Sauter," Williams said.

"The match was originally slated for Henry Mailley of DeLisle, but Henry is getting married," he added.

Also slated to see action in the pugilistic match is 17-year-old Jay Brinkley, Kevin Goodrick, 16-year-old, undefeated Jerry Carver, a 15-year-old, and Scott Colson, a 150-pound 13-year-old.

Other boxers slated to meet in the ring are Freddie Rouse, 18, Bobby Marshall, 18, and Bobby Stephens, 10, and Sauter (underdog) Williams, 15-year-old.

The match will be held at the Sauter Boxing Club, 1001 S. Main St. Goodman was defeated in a decision on Sept. 2 after going the distance with White. Sauter Head Coach John Williams said he expects a close fight.

Pass Christian Pirates

By RICH ADAMS
Sports Editor

The Pass Christian Pirates face a tough St. Martin Yellow Jacket squad Friday night, a team which is ranked second in the Pascagoula River Conference.

"We saw St. Martin play Saturday, and they have a fine football team," second-year Head Coach Bob Lumpkin said Tuesday.

"They are a well balanced team, and no member goes both ways," Lumpkin explained.

"St. Martin has a good offensive line, a real fine running back, and two fine quarterbacks. They have real good depth, and the defensive people are the same way—good, solid people," the head coach said.

Lumpkin's Pirates may face problems with the Yellow Jackets, not necessarily because of their being a fine team, but rather because of a virus which has many of the Pass squad out of school and practice.

Oscar Bailey, a key defensive player, is also expected to sit Friday night out with a knee injury.

"Basically, we must stop the rushing attack," Lumpkin said Tuesday.

"I feel St. Martin is going to run, and we must shut off the running game," Lumpkin explained.

On his own side of the line of scrimmage, Pirate star Gene Lang will be trying to get the big scoring game which has been expected of the speedster all year.

SIDELINE SYNOPSIS

By Rich Adams
Sports Editor

Another excitement-filled Friday of gridiron action is coming up tomorrow, and Hancock County teams are pitted against some tough opposition this week, which should indicate which teams will be participating in post-season play this year.

St. Stanislaus faces another tough d'Iberville opponent, equal in caliber to the Sidel squad, which handed the Rock-A-Chaws their first and only loss this season.

The Rocks will have to contain James Evans, the running-passing Warrior who accounted for many scores last week against Bay High and who leads the Pascagoula-River Conference in scoring with 56 points.

d'Iberville was scored against last week by Bay High, the first PRC squad to do so this season.

The Warriors have racked up 127 total points this year, compared to 27 against them.

However, SSC's Scott Senner and Keith Pfister are fine runners and will probably eat up much yardage against the Warrior defense.

As I watched 'Monday Night Football' this week and saw Miami's Jim Coonka run against defenders, he reminded me of what Senner does to opponents.

Senner hovers above defensive linemen, and shows that same bullying, pushing strength displayed by the Miami star.

However, the sly, cunning Warriors have momentum in their favor, and a record to back them, and I predict, in an extremely close contest, the d'Iberville pack will win.

Bay High travels to Long Beach to participate in that school's homecoming Friday and Head Coach James Smith hopes his offense will pull it all together for the match and gain the consistency usually acquired with years of experience. I think Long Beach was expecting a pushover when they scheduled Bay High as their homecoming opponent, as all teams like to win their homecoming events.

But Bearcat Head Coach Tom Boezor was not expecting the new, 'believing' Tigers who have won two games against tough opponents this year, and is having some reservations about the Tiger 'underdogs' (undercats?).

I think Bay High will put it together and come from underdogs to victors in the contest Friday night.

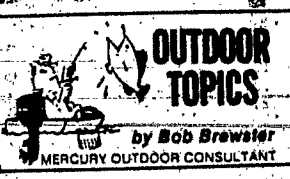

Pass Christian has a problem team on their hands also Friday night as they host St. Martin, second-ranked in the PRC.

St. Martin has scored a total of 102 points against opponents, and is 3-1 for the season.

Gene Lang, the "fastest back on the Gulf Coast," is hoping to show his talent and run for long yardage against the Yellow Jackets, but so far this year teams have keyed on him and limited the fine runner to less yards than he is capable of.

Although Pass Christian is a fine team with excellent leadership, I feel the St. Martin eleven will come to power during the match and defeat the Pirates.

All games begin at 7:30 p.m. and should be excellent spectator events.

OUTDOOR TOPICS
by Bob Brewster
MERCURY OUTDOOR CONSULTANT

With few exceptions, the design and function of modern fishing tackle makes it better suited to heaving lures a long distance than it is to hooking a fish.

According to Mercury outdoor fishing experts, the combination of flexible rod, slip-drag reel and monofilament fishing line actually decreases hook setting power.

As many bass fishermen know, long-whip rods bend nearly full length when set against a striking fish.

The rod becomes a shock absorber instead of a strength multiplier, robbing power from the hook at the end of the line.

The need to control big fish in brushy impoundments has dictated the development of short, stiff rods which can force a fish quickly out of flooded debris and into open water.

Fishing line also robs power from the hook.

The resistance of water against the line claims some power, but the most loss occurs when you attempt to set the hook.

Wet monofilament line will stretch as much as 40 percent.

While this is only momentary, it can account for as much as 500 percent power loss at the hook.

Ten pounds of pull on the line at the rod translates to only two pounds of pressure at the hook.

Add together the loss caused by the bending rod, the stretching line and the slipping of the reel's drag, and you can see why many fish are not securely hooked.

The next time you haul back on the rod to set the hook, and brag about "crossing his eyes," remember that it's likely that the fish barely feels the force.

State eyes gasohol production

Gasohol, a mixture of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol distilled from renewable resources, may well be the "ready now" fuel of the future for the automobile.

Gasohol is a cleaner burning fuel than gasoline, its octane rating is higher, it delivers higher miles per gallon, and it reduces pollution. All of this makes for a more efficient fuel for the automobile, experts say.

In addition, gasohol can be used in all gasoline engines with no modification whatsoever.

In Mississippi there is a lot of talk and excitement about the possibility of a new multimillion-dollar industry being carved from gasohol production.

The potential investment could reach 200 million dollars by 1985, employing 5000 people, says a representative of the newly formed Mississippi Gasohol-Alcohol Association, a non-profit corporation formed to accumulate and disseminate information on gasohol as it relates to the rapidly changing field of energy production.

Alcohol used in the gasohol blend can be made from a variety of raw materials already available in Mississippi: wood and wood wastes, corn and other grains, rice and sorghum, to name a few.

The widespread use of gasohol as fuel for automobiles could reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil by as much as 20 percent, while improving our balance of payments deficit by subsidizing the American farmer instead of the Arab oilmen.

The introduction of widespread energy farming for gasohol production could give a much needed shot in the arm to Mississippi agriculture. The alcohol to be made for the production of gasohol is a natural fuel, and is renewable as long as the sun shines. It is an efficient form of solar energy.

Several feasibility and engineering studies are already under way for the construction of alcohol plants in the State of Mississippi. The construction period will vary from 9 to 24 months, depending on plant size.

USM schedules 'Legislative Weekend'

Eight hundred or more special guests will be on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg for Legislative Weekend, Oct. 12, 13, 14.

This special weekend-long event is in conjunction with the third home game, when the Golden Eagles host the Green Wave of Tulane University.

Many and varied activities have been planned for the legislators and their families by a special committee composed of over 80 USM students, faculty and staff, and chaired by Dr. Shelby Thames, vice-president for administration and regional campuses.

Activities of the weekend include a seafood jamboree; a legislative briefing session on Saturday morning, supervised children's activities, buffet breakfasts on Saturday and Sunday, an open house Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Aubrey K. Lucas and the weekend highlight featuring the contest between the USM Golden Eagles and the Tulane Green Wave.

Activities for the legislators are being planned by private organizations, committees, and individuals, and the committee appreciates the help of the donors.

Legislative Weekend is an annual event at USM which began in 1976. In 1978, more than 1000 legislators and their families, many other officials, and members of the national congressional delegation.

Cancer patient group sets organizing meet

BY EDGAR PEREZ

An organizational meeting is slated for 7 p.m. tonight at Best Western Gulfport Inn on US-90 for Living Thru Cancer, a group designed to aid cancer patients, their relatives and friends. "Living Thru Cancer is an informally organized group of past and present cancer patients and their families who meet regularly for the purpose of information and support," reports Ms. Kathy Breland, RN, of Gulfport, a LTC organizer. "We are prepared to help the cancer patient deal with the impact of cancer on himself and his family," she added. "In addition to emotional support, we have a continuing educational effort designed to help the patients better understand the nature of the disease and treatment methods." The group plans to meet each second Thursday, 7 p.m. at Best Western.

"We will offer real empathy," Ms. Breland continued. "Who can better support a cancer patient than one who has already been there?"

She noted similar organizations in the United States include Make Today Count in Iowa and Today Our Understanding of Cancer is Hope (or Touch) in Alabama. The groups are all sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Programs will include panel discussions with doctors, nurses, social workers, psychologists, chaplains, patients and family members. Other program topics are "Psychological Implications of Cancer," "Breast Cancer and Reconstruction," and "Osteomas."

"Cancer and its ramifications strike all of us directly or indirectly, and the time is long past when the subject should be dealt with more openly," Ms. Breland feels.

For information on the new program, contact Ms. Breland at 664-3000 or Lynn Estes at the American Cancer Society in Gulfport, 664-7024.

Flyer Bill Alexander in a King-Cat sails gently over Hancock County

Aerial fertilizing business comes to Stennis Airport

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

The aerial fertilizing business has come to Hancock County, generating some $11,000 per month in revenues to Stennis Airport.

Mid-Continent Aircraft Corp. is fertilizing thousands of acres of pine trees in the county because "the price of timber is substantially higher than the price of fertilizer," says the corporation's field supervisor Dale Fitzhugh.

Aerial fertilizing of trees is a relatively new concept. It was brought about because the price of pulpwood saw timber, and pine in general is increasing, the supervisor explains.

"Pine trees in low-lying areas of Hancock County are growing in soil that is phosphorus deficient—this retards their growth," Fitzhugh continues.

Fitzhugh says the fertilizer dropped from the airplane primarily contains phosphorus which makes up for the deficiency and allows the pine trees to grow at their normal rapid rate.

International Paper Co. has contracted Mid-Continent to fertilize 15,000 acres of pine tree forest in the county.

Bill Alexander, a second-generation agricultural pilot, is the aviator for the county fertilization project.

Alexander flies a Grumman C-model King-Cat. This particular plane however, has a special 1,200 horsepower engine, in addition to a few other modifications.

The plane can carry two tons or 4,000 pounds of fertilizer.

"The King-Cat comes from a line of airplanes produced by Grumman during WWII. During the war Grumman made war planes like the Hell-Cat and the Bear-Cat," Alexander noted.

Alexander, who has worked as an agricultural pilot for 20 years, is a native of South Dakota.

"My dad was an ag-pilot and there are several good schools in Arizona that teach the skill," he stated.

"As a matter of fact," the pilot elaborated, "my son is studying at one of those schools now and will soon become a third-generation agricultural pilot."

The process at Stennis begins with loading fertilizer from a kiln, a large storage container.

After the plane is loaded, Alexander flies to the drop site usually marked by red, helium-filled balloons over the trees.

Alexander must fly within 10 to 15 feet above the trees before he can shower the pines. Each drop covers a 54-foot wide area.

Both Alexander and Fitzhugh noted by the time the plane lands, is reloaded, and off into the air with another 4,000 pounds, no more than four minutes has elapsed.

Fitzhugh says most of the fertilizer comes from a plant in Covington, La. "We expect to use 4 million pounds of the stuff for the county project, adds Fitzhugh.

The field supervisor noted his chief ground supervisor Wendell Watkins of Arkansas is also a vital link in the operation.

With Mid-Continent corporate headquarters in Hayti, Mo., Fitzhugh anticipates opening a branch office at Stennis Airport, contingent upon other contracts in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Texas being finalized.

Fitzhugh added major paper and timber companies are the type of business that contract aerial fertilizing services.

In addition, both Alexander and Fitzhugh praised Stennis Airport and fixed-base operator Andy Ewing.

"This is the sharpest fixed-base operation in the country," Fitzhugh proclaimed.

Alexander soars in a King-Cat 10 to 15 feet above county pine forest showering the plant life with fertilizer primarily containing phosphorus.

County auto dealers feature 1980 cars

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

The 1980 cars are here, and Hancock County automobile dealers have scheduled open houses this month to show the new vehicles.

Hille Oldsmobile Inc. at 604 South Beach Blvd.; Frank Schuffert Pontiac-Buick-GMC Inc. and Turan Lane Chevrolet, both on US-90, all plan open houses today.

Open house at Charlie Henderson Ford Inc. on US-90 is scheduled Oct. 12. Owner-manager Frank Hille of Hille Oldsmobile praised the 1980 Delta 88 Royale Olds with its diesel engine.

"The Royale gets 25 miles in the city and some 30 miles on the highway according to EPA estimates," Hille explained.

"What I like about this car," he said, "is you get a full-sized car with the economy of a compact. Also, the diesel engine does not require tune-ups, thus saving you money."

Hille also noted an insurance industry report stated that of all 1978 cars, the Delta 88 was in the top five in regards to passenger safety.

Hille, who is a second generation car dealer, said the auto has a 20-gallon tank.

Other cars in Oldsmobile's 1980 line include the Firenza, Toronado, Omega, Starfire, Cutlass and the Ninety Eight.

Frank Schuffert, owner-manager of the local Pontiac-Buick-GMC dealership, favors the Buick LaSabre in his stock of 1980 cars.

"The LaSabre has some cosmetic changes compared to last year's model," Schuffert explains. "It has a new roof panel that gives a more expensive look in addition to superb riding and handling."

"The LaSabre is in-line with the big cars," he noted, "it's got that solid driving feel, and the auto gets an average of 16 miles in the city, and more than that on the highway."

Schuffert said he liked the LaSabre most, "because it's a Buick and the General Motors line is superior to anything on the market in engineering and fuel economy."

Other Pontiac-Buick-GMC cars in the 1980 series include the Riviera, Electra, Regal, Skylark, Century, Grand Prix, Firebird, LeMans, and the Phoenix.

Turan Lane Chevrolet Inc. owner-manager Harmon Turan prefers the 1980 Monte Carlo Landau Coupe with its new V6 turbo-charged engine.

Turbo-charging allows added power without increasing engine displacement, he explained.

"For example," Turan continued, "in a situation requiring added acceleration—like passing—a press on the accelerator causes the turbocharger to speed up."

"Using the exhaust gases as a power source, this allows up to 32 percent more horsepower on demand," he added.

When you are not passing or climbing, you enjoy the advantages of a normal air-fuel mixture, he noted.

Turan remarked the Monte Carlo has always been a best-seller and the turbo-engine feature is very popular.

Turan describes the vehicle as a "very personal car."

Additional Chevrolets include the Camaro, Citation, Caprice Classic, Impala (200 pounds lighter) the Chevette and what Turan calls the "true American sportscar," the Corvette.

Charlie Henderson, owner-manager of Henderson Ford, fancies the 1980 Thunderbird Town Landau.

"This car has very special features," Henderson said, "which include a trimmer outside, automatic overdrive and an electronic instrument panel."

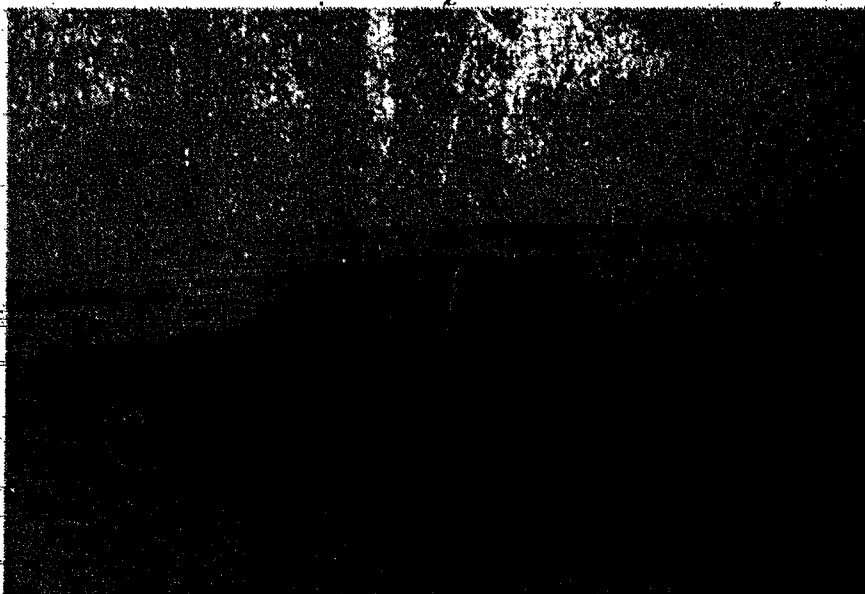

"In short," he exclaimed, "it's in tune with the times."

"The Thunderbird proves that Detroit can make a quality luxury car with plenty of room, and yet remain efficient," Henderson proclaimed.

The EPA lists the car at 20 miles per gallon-highway.

Henderson said the overdrive feature kicks in at about 40 miles per hour, shifting it automatically into a fourth overdrive gear.

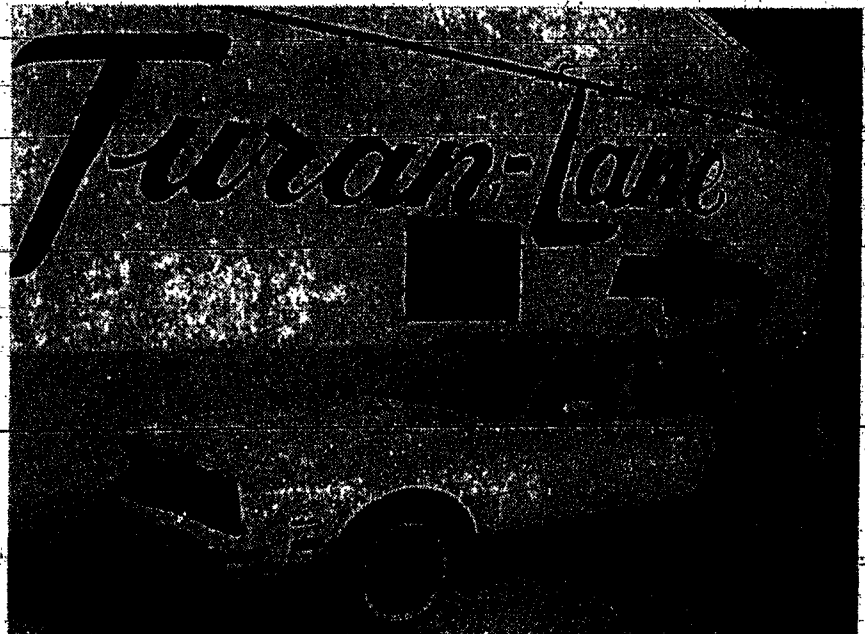

Other 1980 Fords include the Fairmont, LTD, Fiesta, Pinto, Futura, Mustang, and the Granada.

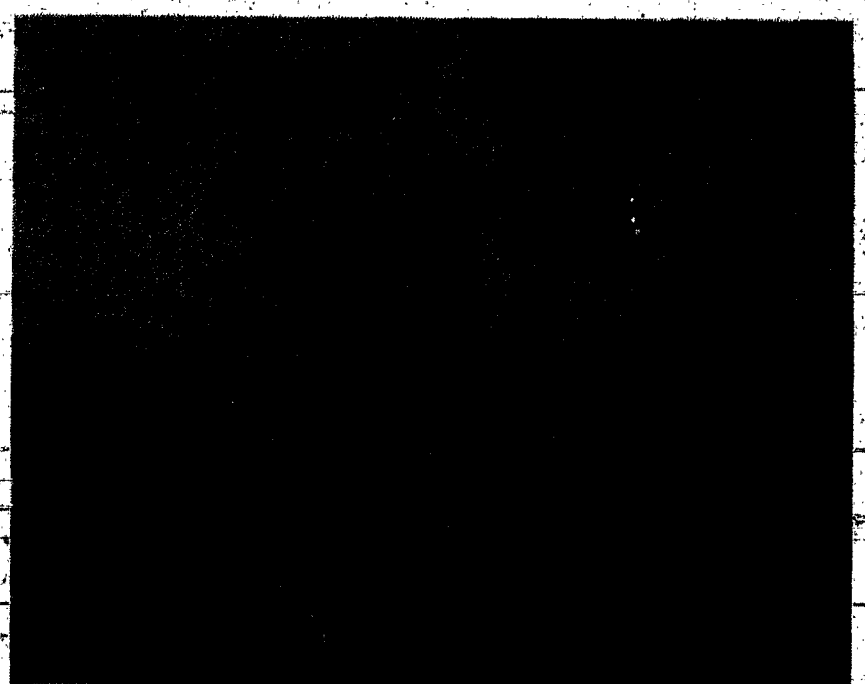

Frank Hille, 1980 Delta 88 Royale Olds.

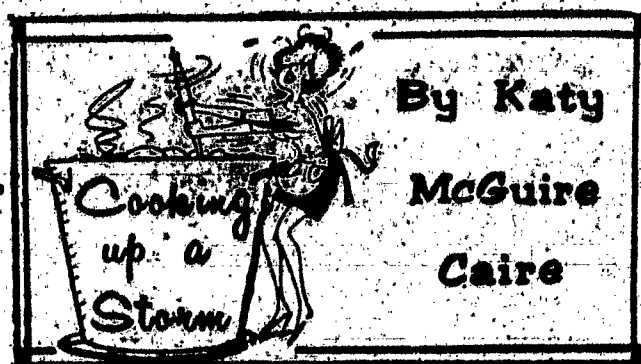

Frank Schuffert, 1980 Buick LaSabre.

Harmon Turan, 1980 Monte Carlo Landau Coupe.

Had a delightful note the other day from a longtime friend, born and reared in Europe, who for many years has been striving, she says, to understand the American custom of "loading the plate" with meat, instead of using meat as a part of the "whole symphony of dinner music to the palate." Like the sound of that, and so does my budget.

And in my reply to her, I remarked on the fact that Americans, too, are learning that art of stretching smaller amounts of meat these days in our efforts to make appetites and budgets more compatible.

In her note, Suzette reminded me of a recipe she's given me many a year ago, during the meat shortages of World War II, when she and I were young wives and mothers, as well as would-be gourmet cooks on budgets beset by both finances and government regulations.

This recipe has remained a favorite of mine through the years, whatever the ups and downs of best supplies and budgets and so on. Here's (1)

SUZETTE'S STEAK STRIPS 'N' RICE

1 to 1½ steak sirloin, if you've made a loan at your bank otherwise, round or rib-eye);

1 carton fresh mushrooms or 1 small can mushrooms; 1 jar (small) penicillins;

¾ cup brandy or red wine; 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine; 1 cup thin-sliced onions; ¼ Tsp. pepper, salt to taste; dash of hot pepper sauce; 1 cup water; 3 cups hot, cooked rice

(The secret of this dish is to cut the steak into strips about the length of your little finger, then "jazz" it up with mushrooms and onions and wine and seasonings, not only to stretch the servings, but also to make them more delectable.

The rice is the real key to economy with elegance in this dish, as well as the perfect accompaniment.

Saute the steak strips in the butter till nicely browned (remember, over moderate heat) lower the fire and add all other ingredients, except the rice. Cover and simmer for half hour or more, or till the strips are fork-tender. Serve over rice. (Serves four to six).

If you really want to be fancy, serve this in a chafing dish, flaming the dish at table. (Copyright, 1979, Katharine D.M. Caire).

Depending on tenderness of the cut you are using—switch a bite and test as you go along.

Winter, endorsed by MAE, promises education reform

Democratic gubernatorial nominee William Winter, endorsed by the 17,000 member Mississippi Association of Educators, this week called for upgrade in Mississippi's educational system.

"It is imperative that your Governor have the know-how and effectiveness to build a strong school program for the 1980's," Winter said. "We must forge a school program which will lift Mississippi off the bottom and give our young people an education as good as any in the country."

"Only aggressive and intelligent leadership from the Governor's office can make our goal of top quality education a reality in this state," the Granada County News stressed.

In July, Winter released a seven-point education program he says is tailored to meet the needs of Mississippi's educational system.

In announcing his group's endorsement, MAE President Donald Dick said, "Winter is more knowledgeable and decisive than his opponent in addressing the needs and problems of education in Mississippi."

MAE feels the last increase in retirement benefits received by teachers and other state employees occurred largely as a result of Winter's efforts, and praised Winter's overall education program as "forward looking."

Winter's seven-point program includes a constitutional amendment to create a lay Board of education.

"The size, finances and organization of our public schools now call for a policy body representative of the people of our state," Winter said.

He promised to appoint qualified and concerned citizens from various sectors of education community to that board.

Winter also proposes a plan called "Operation Uplift" to raise the salaries of all school employees to the average of the Southeastern region of the country by the end of the next administration.

Said Winter, "This goal can be achieved without a tax increase by streamlining the tax support system and the operation of our school."

Winter additionally called for the rewriting of the state's education laws. He would urge the Legislature to establish an Interim Task Force to draft a new Minimum Foundation Program.

Meridian SCORE chapter chartered

Col. Signey Wogan, member of the Mississippi Gulf Coast SCORE Chapter, and SCORE representative for the State of Mississippi, recently returned from Meridian where he was instrumental in establishing a new SCORE Chapter in that City.

SCORE is an acronym for the Service Corps of Retired Executives, an organization of over 1,000 retired business executives, both men and women, who volunteer their time to provide free management counseling to existing or prospective small business owners.

SCORE Council, was on hand to present the Chapter's By-Laws.

The Gulf Coast SCORE Chapter is located in the Gulf National Life Insurance Building, 111 Fred Haise Boulevard, Biloxi, Ms. Anyone desiring free management counseling should call the Biloxi Chapter at (601)436-3676.

The Meridian SCORE Chapter will provide management counseling and training services to small business owners in east central Mississippi.

The Meridian Chapter is the first to be chartered in the United States for fiscal year 1980 and is the fourth such chapter in the State of Mississippi.

The other Chapters are located in Biloxi, Jackson, and Tupelo.

Arlis Jones, District Director of the Small Business Administration for Mississippi, presented the charter to John Eggen, Meridian Chapter Chairman; John Gilbert, Regional SCORE Representative, and member of the National Health Board warns of Halloween dangers

The dangers of Halloween can be reduced this year if little ghosts and goblins are treated to some safety tricks.

When selecting costumes, beards, masks, or wigs, consumers should look for flame-retardant labels, suggests the Mississippi State Board of Health.

Flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts that could easily catch fire should be avoided, and hemlines should be short enough to avoid tripping.

Motorists can clearly see light, bright-colored costumes. Even witches can wear reflective tape sewn onto their gowns or carry flashlights.

Masks or other face disguises should not restrict vision or breathing. A natural mask of cosmetics applied directly to the skin is usually safest.

Children should not carry candlelit jack-o-lanterns, which should be kept away from doorsteps where trick-or-treaters' costumes might brush against the flame.

If used indoors, the lanterns should not be near curtains, decorations, or other furnishings that could ignite.

Most residents use porch or exterior lights as a sign of their hospitality, and children should restrict their calls to homes with porch or other outside lights glowing.

Unless the accompanying adult gives approval, they should not enter a house or apartment.

Students should be instructed to bring their collected treats home before eating them. Parents should check treats to be certain items are safely sealed and have not been tampered with or contaminated.

The State of Health also encourages these safety guidelines:

Young children trick-or-treating should always be with a responsible older person and kept in constant sight;

Youngsters should avoid running across lawns or backyards because they can trip over lawn ornaments or run into clotheslines that are invisible in the dark;

Children should remember everyday safety rules, such as not dashing out between parked cars;

Motorists driving on Halloween should take special care to "watch out for trick-or-treaters who will be too busy to watch out for you."

Carmichael proposes small town preservation program

Gil Carmichael will fight to preserve small towns in Mississippi. The candidate for Governor revealed his three-point plan for small towns at the Mississippi State University dedication of its Center for Small Town Research and Design.

"The time has come for a policy decision to be made in Mississippi," Carmichael said. "Either we continue to allow our families to be forced into urban centers, or we make a strong push to restore the economic and social vitality of our small towns.

I'm committed to keeping our small towns alive and thriving.

The Meridian businessman's three points to accomplish this goal were: 1) Recruit industry for small towns to provide jobs at home;

2) Return elementary schools to small towns to restore community spirit and social activity; and 3) Stop the abandonment of railroad service to small towns and upgrade the road systems servicing small towns so goods and raw materials can be transported readily.

"Accomplishment of these three goals will not be easy," Carmichael said. "It will take strong leadership from the Governor's office and strong leadership from our small towns."

"But getting this job done is vital to keeping Mississippi's economy strong and to preserve our rural heritage."

Reagan to support Pickering in Hattiesburg appearance

Republican attorney general nominee Charles Pickering expressed pleasure this week that leading GOP presidential contender Ronald Reagan will visit Mississippi to campaign on his behalf.

"I'm very pleased that Gov. Reagan is taking time from his busy schedule campaigning for the presidency to come to Mississippi to campaign on my behalf,"

Pickering said. The former California Governor will speak at an Oct. 18 fund-raising luncheon in Hattiesburg, from which the proceeds will go to Pickering's campaign.

"Gov. Reagan's views are consistent with the views of the majority of the people of Mississippi," said Pickering, who is completing his second term in the State Senate.

"We also are going to have a public appearance at the Pine Belt Airport in Hattiesburg. We hope everyone who wants to see and hear Gov. Reagan will come to the airport," he said.

Reagan is scheduled to arrive at the airport, where he will make a brief comment, shortly before going to the luncheon.

GCRL, USM combine for oyster research

The Gulf Research Laboratory (GCRL) and the University of Southern Mississippi (USM) have been selected through a competitive bid process to receive a contract from the Food and Drug Administration, Bureau of Foods, to develop guidelines for oyster relaying on the Gulf Coast.

Two years will be required to complete the contract which was to begin September 1. The contract provides funding of $104,906, including a subcontract in the amount of $39,500 to USM for viral analyses.

Senior project personnel at GCRL are Dr. David W. Cook, head of the microbiology section, who will serve as principal investigator, and Dr. Edwin W. Cake, Jr., head of the oyster biology section, who will be co-investigator. Dr. R.D. Ellender, associate professor of microbiology at USM, will also serve as a co-investigator on the project.

"Relaying" is an accepted method of cleansing oysters from contaminated reefs prior to harvesting them for market. The oysters are moved from a closed reef, put on a reef in approved waters, and monitored for a period of about two weeks during which the oysters are cleansed by their natural filtering process. A loss of many approved reefs, due to the devastating 1978 floods, will undoubtedly increase the practice of relaying oysters in Mississippi.

"The timely awarding of this contract coupled with the increased relaying activity will provide us an excellent opportunity to assess the entire practice," Cook said. In addition to determining the cleansing rates of oysters under various environmental conditions, the investigators will seek information on practices that will improve survival of the relaid oysters.
